The FARMERS CORNER

by RALPH H. TAYLOR

Executive Secretary
Agricultural Council of California

"Thirty dollars every Thursday!"
It is an intriguing slogan—an inviting prospect, if you can bury your head in the economic sands and believe in it.

And apparently some 760,000 Californians did just that; for 700,000 Californians, according to official reports, signed petitions to submit the $30-a-week pension act to the voters at the November General Election.

Never in the history of the State have so many citizens signed petitions for an initiative act as signed-up for Thirty Dollars Every Thursday.

It is amazing and startling in that it means the act will have a good chance of approval at the polls unless voters look before they leap; startling, too, in that the measure, if it becomes law, will play havoc with the state's financial structure and will start a stampede to California which will double and treble the rush of refugees now crossing our borders.

But perhaps the worst aspect of the new pension craze is that hundreds of thousands of old people who have high hopes of retirement, with a life annuity of $30 per week, will be bitterly disappointed and disillusioned—after parting with hard-earned dollars to finance a movement which is doomed to failure.

In the interest of humanity, if not in the interest of state solvency, it is to be hoped that the fallacy of the plan is exposed long before election day and that the act is repudiated at the polls, instead of being invalidated in the courts, or collapsing of its own weight after an unsuccessful attempt to make it work. California farm organizations can perform no more worthwhile service this year than to advise their members of the unsoundness and utter impossibility of the will-o'-the-wisp program which this initiative contemplates.

Let's take a look at this act with the magic title.

If it became effective, all California citizens, 50 years of age or over and "not employed for compensation," would be eligible to receive 30 state-issued, one-dollar warrants, or certificates, every Thursday.

Estimates of the number of people in California who would be eligible vary from 700,000 to 900,000, but promoters of the plan estimate that 500,000 persons would accept the pension immediately. At $30 per week, they would be paid $15,000,000 a week. At the end of the first year, there would be $780,000,000 in state certificates in circulation!

Theoretically, at least, the warrants, or certificates, would be retired each year by a 2-cent per week tax on each dollar certificate. But who would pay that tax? With $780,000,000 worth of the state warrants in circulation, it may be assumed that California merchants would have about $500,000,000 worth in their tills every Thursday—providing, of course, that merchants accepted them in exchange for merchandise, as the plan contemplates. At 2-cents per certificate, that would mean a weekly tax bill of $10,000,000 for California merchants on top of all other taxes.

But there is every likelihood—in fact, it is a virtual certainty—that banks would refuse to accept the certificates as "money," for the federal government reserves the exclusive right to issue money and banks are squeamish about their security. But consider some of the other practical problems: With "state money," not recognized in any other state, how could California merchants buy from out-of-state wholesalers or manufacturers? And if they couldn't turn the "money" into the bank, or use it to replenish their stocks, just what would they do with it? Certainly, farmers wouldn't accept "certificates" in lieu of cash for their commodities—for farmers have to be careful about money; they're not overly endowed with it.

There is grave probability, of course, that the Thirty Dollars Every Thursday plan would be declared unconstitutional in the courts if, by any chance, it should secure approval of the voters. But California can ill afford to gain the reputation of enacting crack-pot legislation which requires intervention of the federal government to save it from financial ruin.

PRESIDENT ENDS VACATION TRIP

Frank Gannett Mentioned in London Papers As Possible G. O. P. Candidate in 1940

LONDON, (AP)—Frank E. Gannett, American newspaper publisher, was mentioned by London newspapers today as a likely Republican candidate for President of the United States in 1940.

"I have never sought office," he was quoted as saying, "but I should accept nomination and fight because it would be my duty. No American could refuse the nomination for the presidency."

The Daily Express carried a long article by Lord Forbes, captioned "the man who thinks Roosevelt wants to be a Hitler," describing in detail the activities of Gannett, who arrived yesterday. Forbes said Gannett regarded Mr. Roosevelt as the nearest thing to a dictator in the United States.

ROOSEVELT RETURNS

WASHINGTON, (AP)—The battle for control of the democratic party enlarges with President Roosevelt's return to the United States from a fishing vacation.

Disembarking from the cruiser the Houston, in Florida, Mr. Roosevelt will head northward to invade Georgia in a showdown on the so-called party purge of "yes, but" democrats.

In Georgia, South Carolina and Maryland are New Deal Democratic battlegrounds on which Mr. Roosevelt either will fulfill the forecasts of a party purge or demonstrate that no direct action is contemplated against bolting democratic senators. He will speak August 11 in Georgia and if a frontal attack on Sen. Walter George, D. Ga., is contemplated, it probably will be made then. George opposed Mr. Roosevelt's judiciary reorganization bill and has so offended the new deal otherwise that some insiders were confident before Mr. Roosevelt left the capital last month that he would declare open warfare against the senator.

U. S. District Attorney Lawrence A. Camp, running as a 100 per cent new dealer, is the man George must beat for the senate nomination.

Newtown Gravel Mine Active

Dathe And Potter Lease Lawson Property, Acquire Percy Alderson Claims

The installation of recently purchased equipment and the development of water in the old Stedman ditch are all that stand in the way of active operation of the Flori mine, a gravel property in the Newtown district.

The property is being developed by E. R. Dathe and D. F. Potter and their associate and tests have proved encouraging. The holding has been leased from Harry Lawson and is described by the operators as virtually virgin ground, since in earlier times the property served as a right-of-way between adjoining claims, and was not worked.

The operators have purchased 800 feet of flume to be used in rebuilding the old Stedman ditch, on which the rights are now controlled by Percy Alderson.

The Lawson lease includes 40 acres, and in addition, the operators have acquired thirty-two acres adjoining, of the Percy Alderson claims. Approximately 52,000 yards of gravel will be moved by hydraulicking and by dragline.

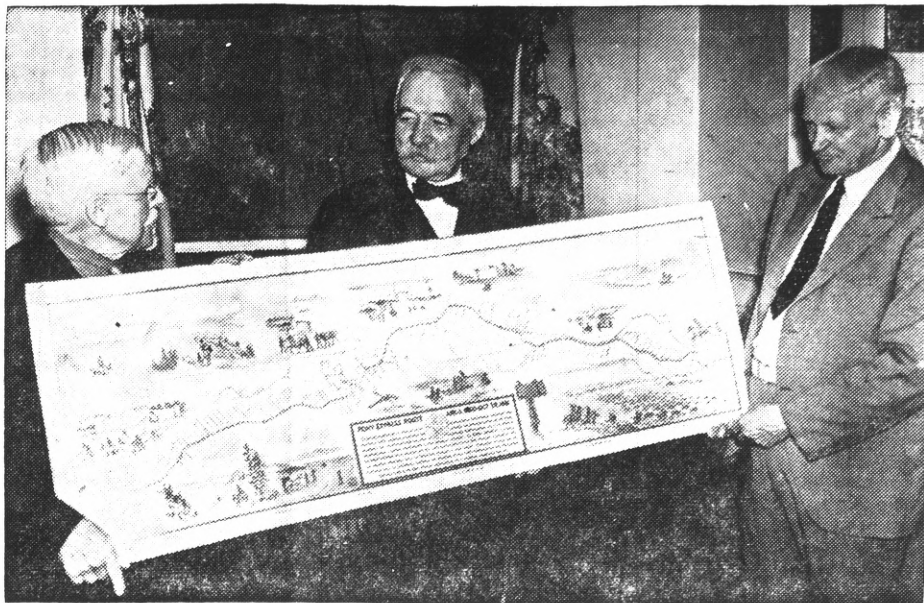

It is expected that operations will begin in about six weeks.

HAKEMOLLER SHAFT TO BE DEEPEND TO 200 LEVEL

Preparations have been completed for the immediate sinking of a 200-foot main shaft at the Hakemoller mine, operated by the Morgan Gold Mining company in Garden Valley. Preliminary work is under way, reports a Sacramento paper.

Present production is coming chiefly from the 50-foot workings.

The mine mill is working on a daily average of about 15 tons, but will be increased as production from lower levels is stepped up by opening of the deeper shaft.

6-FOOT MAP OF PONY ROUTE COMPLETED

Decade Of Research by W. H. Jackson Locates Early Stations, Landmarks

A map that is also a cyclorama of covered wagon and ox-team days and portrays the thrilling exploits of the old Pony Express—first fast mail service to span the western half of the continent—has been officially presented to the Oregon Trail Memorial Association and accepted by it as the authentic record of the pioneer period of 1860-1861.

It was completed after nearly a decade of research by William H. Jackson, ninety-five years old, a noted artist and the association's research director. As bullwhacker and mule-driver of the period, later a Civil War and Geological Survey photographer and authority of the National Park Service, Mr. Jackson spent many of his early years along the Oregon, Mormon and Pony Express trails and was a familiar friend of the pony riders and station keepers.

The map was presented at a luncheon at the Bankers Club, New York City, by F. W. LaFrenz, chairman of the board of the American Surety Co., in honor of Mr. Jackson. It was accepted by Dr. Howard R. Driggs, president of the Oregon Trail Memorial Association.

Plane Makes Take-Off Tests At Tahoe

Longtime hindrance to airplane use of Lake Tahoe is the difficulty of raising a heavy hydroplane off smooth water in a rarefied 6000 foot atmosphere. Until last week no plane had done it since the flying lab "Guba," which made test flights preparatory to exploring the East Indies last summer, observes The Tahoe Tattler.

Last week a Fleetwing amphibian monoplane, piloted by Carl de Ganahl of Bristol, Pa., dropped down on Tahoe for some test takeoffs, using increasing passenger and baggage loads.

After a day's trials, during which crowds of curious gathered from all parts of the lake to watch the silver-hulled ship, de Ganahl found he could take off from Tahoe with as many as three passengers and a pilot and a small amount of baggage if the waters were slightly roughened by winds.

GLEN ALPINE RESORT PLANS REOPENING IN JUNE OF '39

Glen Alpine resort is making plans for re-opening in June of next year. The resort has been closed during the 1938 season, owing to damage done the road leading to the resort from Fallen Leaf lake.

Recent reports from Lake Valley, announcing plans for the immediate building of a steel and concrete bridge over Glen Alpine Creek by the Forest Service, replacing a structure washed out, and a projected realignment of the road to the resort have made the announcement of plans for the 1939 season possible.

Glen Alpine, for many years, has had an appeal all its own to a large number of regular visitors to whom the announcement of reopening in 1939 is cause for rejoicing.

Sam H. Cohn, chief deputy in the office of Walter F. Dexter, state superintendent of public instruction, was in Placerville Tuesday and called on School Superintendent E. J. Fitzgerald. Mr. Cohn went into the state superintendent's office in the same year that Mr. Fitzgerald became county superintendent.

A bad fire near Placerville airport Saturday burned brush, grass and trees. Placerville firemen were called on the blaze but were unable to go beyond the city limits. The fire is said to have burned over a large acreage and was controlled by the State Division of Forestry crew and volunteers.

Max Baer, who used to be the heavyweight boxing champion, was to have visited with the Placerville Lions today. Plans for the affair were necessarily canceled when Mr. Baer's mother passed away at Oakland.

Queen Mary To Seek Record

Liner, Sailing Wednesday, To Try For New Mark In West To East Ocean Crossing

NEW YORK, (AP)—The Queen Mary, new speed champion on the westward Atlantic route, will try to break the record for the eastward crossing if weather conditions are favorable when she sails at 11 a. m. tomorrow, her master, Commodore Robert H. Irving, said today.

The present record, held by the French liner Normandie, is 94 hours and seven minutes. It was made August 8 last year with an average of 31.20 knots between Ambrose Channel lightship, in the New York harbor, and Bishop's Rock, off the English coast.

Irving said that like Douglas Corrigan's flight to Ireland, it was "all a mistake" when the Cunard White Star liner broke the westward record yesterday. He said no especial effort had been made and that "as a matter of fact I did not know that the Queen Mary had beaten the Normandie's record until after we landed."

TAHOE WATER LEVEL IS FALLING SLOWLY UNDER WITHDRAWALS

Wide open gates at the Truckee River outlet let the water level of Lake Tahoe fall .04 feet last week—from 6228.92 to 6228.88, Tahoe weatherman W. A. Simmonds reported Wednesday, says The Tahoe Tattler.

With the fall in the lake level, Nevada irrigation officials order the flow reduced from over 500 cubic feet per second to some 270 by mid week and Simmonds estimated that the lake would drop about .02 feet per day for the next fortnight.

Amount of water in the Truckee River at Iceland must be kept at 500 second feet to insure irrigation supply for Nevada farmers. Tahoe is controlled accordingly.

RURAL BOX-HOLDERS ASKED TO ASSIST

Standardization Of roadside receptacles Being Sought In Nation-Wide Campaign

The Placerville postoffice is cooperating in a national drive to obtain better response from those who receive their mail by rural route delivery. The office will seek to have box-holders repair the receptacles so they conform to the regulations regarding height, openings, paintings, flags and similar factors.

It is a part of the program to have the rural boxes marked legibly with the name and address of the resident.

These seem to be merely common sense arrangements to help the rural carrier, and they are necessary if the efficiency of the mail service is to be maintained.

It would be interesting to keep "tab" upon the minutes lost by the carrier due to negligence on the part of box owners. No doubt it would be astonishing to see how much time is wasted because the facilities are in need of repair, some of them in such disorder that it is a wonder the mail arrives at all.

The rural mail carrier has a difficult task. Cooperation will make his work easier and thereby assure the public and the patrons that the service will be maintained at the highest peak of efficiency.

CELIO SAWMILL AT LAKE VALLEY SAVED IN RECENT FIRE

Fire, which started in a pile of sawdust heaped up in a hopper above the removal conveyor, burned over a part of the Celio sawmill near Meyers last week, causing about $250 damage says The Tahoe Tattler.

For a time, the blaze threatened to destroy the entire mill.

A decreasing wind, which stopped at just the moment when hoses were hooked up, saved the mill from being completely razed, Norman Celio, acting head of the firm, said.

The entire hopper structure which sits atop the roof of the mill, directly above the boilers and furnaces, was ablaze when it was discovered by mill workers. The fire occurred at 10:30 a. m. Tuesday of last week.

A serious fire would probably have put Lake Tahoe's last remaining lumber mill out of business, Celio said. Fire insurance is prohibitive and only about five years' more timber is available in the region.

SCIARONI MINE AGAIN WORKING WITH FULL CREW

The Sciaroni mine on Grizzly Flat is being operated with a full crew again by the Cosumnes Gold Mining company after a long period of enforced idleness due to the severe weather conditions of last winter, a Sacramento paper reports.

Milling of gold ore has been stepped up to 60 tons per day.

An extended production period is forecast by the operators, who point to favorable development of new ground and the exposure of large reserves.

Mrs. A. O. Nelson was among Tuesday callers from Garden Valley.

CHINESE DELAY JAP ADVANCE

Nippon Thrust In Yangtze Valley Weakened By Row With Russia In Siberia

By JOE ALEX MORRIS

United Press Staff Correspondent
Chinese resistance to the Japanese invasion stiffened today in ratio to seriousness of Japan's conflict with Russia on the Siberian frontier.

The Soviet's stern attitude toward Japan in battling over disputed Changkufeng Hill on the Siberian-Manchukuo border has resulted—intentionally or unintentionally—in weakening the Japanese offensive up the Yangtze Valley, against Hankow.

For the moment, fighting in the Changkufeng sector was reported to have died out but both sides busily strengthened positions if still feeble diplomatic gestures toward settlement continue unsuccessful. Japanese sources reported that field marshal Vassily Blucher, commander in chief of the Soviet's far eastern army, had taken personal command.

But far to the south, the Japanese climactic offensive on Hankow was stalled for the time being, at least.

Exact relation of the Chinese recovery in the Yangtze Valley and the threat of war between Russia and Japan on the Siberian border must remain speculative. Russia's aid to China in the past has been limited to war materials, airplane pilots; encouragement of the highly effective Chinese Red army and harassment of Japanese penetrating in the north—particularly in Manchuria. Obviously, that was not enough to prevent the fall of Hankow which had appeared likely in August.

But today the Japanese capture of Hankow is not expected by military experts until probably September; longer if the Chinese counter attacks prove effective.

Armstrong Has Betting Edge

"Smart Money" Takes Ambers, 3 To 1 Underdog, In Bout At Polo Grounds Wednesday

By LESLIE AVERY

United Press Staff Correspondent
NEW YORK, (AP)—The boys who lay their money on the line today gave Lou Ambers only one chance in three of remaining lightweight champion when Henry Armstrong surges out to meet him tomorrow night at the Polo Grounds.

They offered even money that Ambers wouldn't last the full 15 rounds.

This belief was also reflected at the box office, where it was indicated the total gate would be less than $80,000. Promoter Mike Jacobs insisted today that the total CASHED UP TO INNET that a "big, last minute sale" would bring the gate to more than $100,000 but he admitted that the advance sale was only about $30,000.

Many smart boxing men—fellows directly connected with the business—called the 3 to 1 odds the "juiciest ever offered." They were taking the short end of the betting, and liking it.

SHARPLE HOUSE RAZED BY FLAMES TUESDAY AFTERNOON

The old Six-Mile House, stopping place for travelers in an early-day on the route between Placerville and Lake Tahoe and Nevada points, was destroyed by fire shortly after noon Tuesday.

Origin of the blaze was believed a defective flue. A whisp of smoke was noted coming from the roof of the building by the lookout at the Mt. Dana State Division of Forestry station, and by the time the fire crew reached the scene the entire roof was ablaze.

Willard Austin, state fire ranger, said the property was owned jointly by J. J. Wiley and Albert Rupley and that the place was tenanted by a family whose name he did not learn.

"We-all was just fixin' to move out," the occupants told the ranger.

Jack Vivian, 21, and Beulah Chalarson, 20, both of Placerville, obtained a marriage license at Reno over the week end.

BACK TO EARTH

PARADE OF SPORTS

By HENRY McLEMORE
(United Press Staff Writer)

BRONX ZOO, New York (U-P)—Well, folks, it finally has happened!

My sport selections have at last made a monkey of me, and here I am in the Bronx Zoo, sharing a trapeze and a bunch of bananas with a dozen or two of the finest chimps and orang-outangs this side of the South American jungles.

I came up here Sunday night after the Pittsburgh Pirates, the team I picked to finish fourth or fifth in the National League, had increased their lead to six and one-half games by taking both ends of a double header from the Giants.

If you were among the 50,000 customers in the Polo Grounds when the last out was made you know what happened. Without warning I gave out a cry that would have made Tarzan jump and, stuffing a bag of peanuts in my pocket, scampered out on a rafter, and started swinging all over the place. They finally trapped me on top of the centerfield flagpole and brought me here. I am not tremendously surprised because for years and years my selections have been grooming me for young monkeyhood. I didn't tell anyone about it but when Armstrong licked Ross (after I had predicted an easy win for Barney) I could scarcely resist a temptation to run right out of the bowl and climb a tree. And when Louis knocked out Schmeling in one round I spent the remainder of the night atop a chandelier in my living room.

The Pirates, I suppose, were the final straw. Before the season started I believed all the bad things I heard about them, and picked them to finish no better than fifth. Then to see them knock the ball out of the lot and field like magicians was just too much. With a big lead like they now have they are all but a cinch to win the pennant, and so it's just as well I started getting used to a cage now as late in September.

It isn't at all bad here in the zoo. The cage has fifteen or twenty-way ventilation and the peanuts are a lot better than you get in the ballparks. My cage mates are a friendly and interesting bunch. The chimp that was teaching me tricks on the trapeze this morning says he is from South America. An orang outang named Pete, who is held in high respect because he is a nephew of Gargantua and gets passes to the circus, said not to believe the chimp, though; that he wasn't a real chimp at all and wasn't from South America, but was formerly a Mobile sports writer who picked Alabama to win the Rose Bowl game this year by a score of 48 to 0. Real name is Pat, said Pete.

Before the keeper assigned me a permanent perch and my own pineapple plate he wanted to know how I figured the Armstrong-Ambers fight.

"Be careful who you pick," the keeper said, "because it might make a difference in how long you'll be with us."

"I like Ambers," I said, executing a

GHQ AIR FORCE ORDERED TO LOS ANGELES FOR LEGION CONVENTION

WASHINGTON, (U-P)—Acting secretary of war Louis Johnson announced today that the army air corps will concentrate the greatest force of modern fighting planes in U. S. History at Los Angeles Sept. 20 for the American Legion national convention.

All three wings of the general headquarters air force—more than 325 airplanes—will be concentrated at Los Angeles for the Legion parade in connection with the convention.

The flying armada will be under command of Major General Frank M. Andrews, commander of the GHQ air force, who will lead the formation in his C-33 "flying headquarters" plane.

COLORADO PENSION TO FACE REPEAL TEST IN NOVEMBER

DENVER, (U-P)—Colorado's experimental $45 a month pension plan for every person more than 60 today plunged the state into a bitter political controversy overshadowing party nominations and platforms.

A proposal to repeal the pension will appear on the November election ballot.

Sponsors of the repeal plan predicted that "nobody in Colorado will care who is elected senator or who is leading for governor election night."

New Foundland Forest Fire Menace Towns

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld., (U-P)—Government steamers were standing by today to evacuate residents of three fishing villages if forest fires which threatened them should make it necessary.

The fires were burning all around Wesleyville, Brookfield and Bonavista Bay. Many residents had left their houses and will board the steamers if the flames close in.

The fires had been raging in several sections of the Avalon peninsula for a week.

def double twist on the bars of the cage.

"You like who?"

"Ambers," I repeated. "I think he'll win a decision."

"I hope you like it here," he answered sadly, "because you'll be here a long, long time."

BARGES AND DIESEL-ENGINE CRAFT PLY MISSISSIPPI AS MEMPHIS MOURNS PASSING OF ROMANTIC SIDE-WHEELERS OF EARLY DAY

MEMPHIS, (U-P)—The charm and romance of the Mississippi river of 75 years ago have disappeared today with the modernization of river traffic.

Instead of picturesque side-wheel steamers, there are now numerous craft void of any construction designs other than machinery piled on a steel hull with its square bow and stern. These new river transports are mostly Diesel-powered and are economical but they lack the charm of a century ago.

The best years of steamboating on the Ohio and Mississippi rivers were from 1850 to 1880, according to government records. More steamboats were built in 1864 than in any other year. Some of them were river palaces, elegantly furnished with every convenience known at that time.

Men who owned steamboats then were idolized. Their wealth, standing and influence placed them among the outstanding men in the United States.

It was similar with the steamboat pilot. His spectacular position appealed to all persons and daring young men gave up other careers to follow the romance of the river.

On every trip up and down the Mississippi, the pilothouse was crowded with young women and their chaperones.

Many were the famous boats which plied the rivers from Pittsburgh.

The Monongahela was the steamboat used by the government to transport ammunition to New Orleans for Gen. Andrew Jackson's forces at the Battle of New Orleans. After the battle she made the run back to Pittsburgh in 25 days.

It was Capt. H. M. Shreve who built the Washington—the first steamer to have a double deck. She made the round trip from Louisville to New Orleans in 45 days, speedy transportation in 1817 when she made her first run.

River records indicate the golden years of steamboating began in 1848. From that year until the beginning of the Civil war, steamboat owners became wealthy. In that period cotton boomed in the South and the river was the main source of transport.

The cotton planters became nabobs of the South and grew wealthy.

River trade began to slip in 1880 and the end of the Mississippi was near. A few fine boats were built after that year but they failed to pay and many were dismantled. Railroads were built and took much of the river freight and passenger traffic.

Now barges and Diesel engine boats ply the river.

5 Seized With Dynamite By Oakland Police

OAKLAND, (U-P)—Police reported today they had arrested five men after finding 10 sticks of dynamite in the automobile in which the men were riding.

The men, held for investigation, were William Bishop, Steve Ciesielski, James Skofield and his brother, Emory, all of Oakland, and Paul W. Holden of Cummings. They were taken in custody in the business district.

STATE NEARS CLOSE OF MURDER CASE AGAINST DEPUTY SHERIFF

SOUTH PARIS, Me., (U-P)—The state neared completion of its case against Francis M. Carroll, former deputy sheriff accused of murdering Dr. James G. Littlefield, today by presenting testimony that he was at the scene of the slaying.

Thirteen witnesses testified at the two hour morning session. The testimony most damaging to Carroll was that of an 18 year old high school girl, Hazel Talbot, who said she saw him parked in his automobile outside the home of Paul (Buddy) Dwyer between 7 and 7:30 p. m. last Oct. 13, the night of the slaying.

It was at the home of Dwyer, the state contends, that Carroll killed Dr. Littlefield when he threatened to expose his allegedly incestuous relations with his daughter, Barbara, with whom young Dwyer had been intimate.

NEW UNIT DEDICATED AT WEIMAR FOR INDIAN PATIENTS

County School Superintendent and Mrs. E. J. Fitzgerald returned to their home at Diamond Springs Monday evening after having spent the week-end in Placer County and at Sacramento.

Saturday they were at Weimar Joint Sanatorium, twelve miles east of Auburn, to attend exercises dedicating the recently completed 50-bed pavilion built by the government for Indian patients afflicted with tuberculosis.

They spent Saturday night and Sunday near the Donner summit and were at Sacramento Monday, on school business.

There has been a decided improvement in the quality of Yolo County barley and some of it will be brewing grade.

Pony Express Map Finished

Association and professor of English education at New York University, in the presence of a large gathering.

While the historic value of the six-foot map lies in the minute location of the stations and landmarks along the two thousand miles of Pony Express Trail, its appeal to the present generation is made through beautiful watercolor sketches of the old scenes—herds of buffalo, trains of covered wagons on the trek and in encampments, Indian villages and frontier forts, cattle fords across the rivers and rugged mountain passes beyond the plains.

There are sketches, too, of the old six-guns and of the mochila containing the mail pouches, which was transferred to the saddle of each re-mount as the pony rider sprang upon a fresh horse and sped on his way. The watercolor embellishments are in full color and minute detail.

Dr. Driggs told guests at the Bankers Club luncheon that his association had completed the marking and monumenting of nearly 200 historic "story spots" along the old trails, the object being to bring home to Americans the knowledge of their country and reverence for pioneer courage and sacrifice.

Mr. Lafrentz, besides being a director of the Oregon Trail Memorial Association, attributes his keen interest in its program to his own experiences in the cattle country at Cheyenne, Wyoming, and Ogden, Utah.

The last three years, beginning with the diamond jubilee of the Pony Express in 1935, have been a period of special activity on the part of the Oregon Trail Memorial Association, especially in locating and marking the Pony Express Trail from St. Joseph, Mo., to Sacramento, Calif. The association's annual meeting will be held August 21-23 at Scottsbluff, Nebraska, and the period will conclude with the observance, October 24, of the anniversary of the first trans-continental telegraph, completed in 1861, when the wires from East and West met at Salt Lake City. Schools and historic and patriotic groups throughout the West are expected to join in the observance.

NEW BARTLETT WRAPPERS TO EDUCATE DEALERS

As part of their large-scale drive this year to promote the sale of California Bartletts in principal markets of the nation, the growers, under leadership of the California Fresh Bartlett Advisory Board, are using a new device to educate dealers in proper handling and merchandising of the fruit.

In every box of California Fresh Bartletts shipped out during the 1938 season will be a special wrapper, imprinted with instructions for retailers on how to ripen and display the fruit for best sales results.

To ensure correct handling and help dealers keep retail customers satisfied with perfect fruit, the wrappers point out that Bartletts are best displayed when they have begun to turn yellow and that they ripen best inside the box at temperatures of 65° to 70° F.

Lack of knowledge of the proper handling of the fruit on the part of retailers has long been an obstacle faced by the industry in securing wholehearted trade cooperation. In some instances, dealers have considered Bartletts to be as perishable as berries. However, the present educational effort should go a long way toward correcting this difficulty.

Wrappers also urge dealers to use the attractive store banners and display material furnished by the Advisory Board, to tie in with the national promotion.

Dealer service men this year are being supplied a manual which sets forth in detail the proper methods of handling, ripening and merchandising California Fresh Bartletts. They will make capital of this material in their contacts with the wholesale and retail trade.

The 1938 advertising campaign, opening at the start of the California Bartlett season, will carry through into October. The media being used are full-color outdoor boards and posters in rapid transit stations of selected major markets, and newspapers in 13 different key areas.

Besides, the number of dealer service men in the field has been trebled over that of 1937. With a larger force at work assisting dealers in the merchandising of California Fresh Bartletts, it is expected that the effectiveness of this phase of the promotion will be multiplied many times.

Winter Sports Palace For Tahoe In Nevada

Henry F. Bennett, Jr., a Los Angeles banker, announced this week that approximately $2,000,000 of private capital will be expended on a winter sports palace near Reno and a new hotel at Lake Tahoe. Construction on the hotel will start soon, says The Colfax Record.

Bennett, who recently resigned from partnership in the coastwide banking firm of Bennett, Richards and Hill, has allied himself with Norman H. Biltz, Nevada financier, in the two projects. Each will cost $1,000,000.

The Lake Tahoe hotel project has been underwritten by San Francisco interests. George Whittell, San Francisco millionaire who recently completed a $200,000 lakefront home at Tahoe, is understood to have a substantial financial interest in the hotel.

The winter sports plant will be located in a mountain valley at Montrose, about 20 miles from Reno on a highway which will be open all year. Construction program calls for the erection of a large hotel and entertainment lodge, ski runway, toboggan slides, facilities for ice skating, and other forms of winter sports.

The winter sports center will be partially financed by motion picture capital, according to Bennett.

CALIFORNIAN SAVES NEW YORKER'S LIFE BY PHONE CALL

NEW YORK. (U)—A telephone call from California sent police to the apartment of Duncan Draper, 39, today in time to prevent him from committing suicide.

A police squad forced its way into the apartment and found Draper sitting in the bathtub, his right wrist slashed by a razor which he held in his left hand. He resisted efforts to treat the wound. Four policemen had to hold him while a doctor bound the wrist.

LOTUS NATIVE SUMMONED SUDDENLY MONDAY AT SACRAMENTO

Mrs. Elizabeth L. Rohlifing, 64, wife of Albert E. Rohlifing, passed away suddenly Monday evening at her residence at Sacramento. She was a native of the Coloma and Lotus section of this county and was a sister of Mrs. Mary Pascoe and of James Keane.

The funeral service will be held on Thursday morning at ten o'clock from St. Francis' church, at Sacramento.

In addition to her husband, Mrs. Rohlifing is survived by two sons, Myron E. and Harold J. Rohlifing, who reside at Reno.

VACATIONIST FATALLY WOUNDED BY HIS OWN PISTOL

GRASS VALLEY. (U)—Charles E. Leasure, 31, San Francisco, shot accidentally while on a vacation trip in Sierra County, died at a hospital here last night.

Sheriff's deputies who journeyed into the rugged mountain district Sunday to bring the wounded man out said Leasure was shot when he bent over to drink from a spring and a pistol slipped from its holster, discharging when it hit the ground.

Leasure was an employee of the Market Street Railway Company. Officers said they believed he had a wife and child living at Healdsburg.

IN PERFECT FORM—Ann Sheridan, the screen's loveliest redhead, puts her own brand of glamor in "Little Miss Thoroughbred," the feature tonight and Wednesday at the Empire.

"LITTLE THOROUGHbred" PRESENTS NEW CHILD STAR OF FILMS

with many moments of such exquisite tenderness as can be evoked only by looking into the heart of a child. "Little Miss Thoroughbred," the new Warner Bros. picture which opens at the Empire Theatre tonight, promises to win the double tribute of laughs and tears from its audience. The picture will be shown again Wednesday.

And it was, indeed, a child who was mainly responsible for the sentimental spell which the picture cast upon the audience—a child who, remarkably enough, had never been seen on the screen before and yet disclosed amazing talents as an actress.

The tot, six-year-old Janet Chapman, is a veritable wonder child, and in her very first picture she proved that the Warner studio executives are amply justified in their belief that she will be the next great child star of the screen. She is not merely a pretty little girl but is an eloquent and compelling actress with an irresistible, elfin charm that only a person with a heart of granite could resist.

Playing the role of a pathetic little orphan who is firmly convinced that she has a daddy and then is sure she has found him in the callous person of a race track gambler played by John Litel, she motivates a series of exciting and often humorous adventures that come to a group of adults into whose custody she has been accidentally thrown.

This group consists of Litel and his side-kick, a not too bright gambler played by Frank McHugh, and Litel's girl friend—subsequently in the story his wife—played by Ann Sheridan.

NEW YORK, R. I. —(UP)—A debutante coming-out party reminiscent of boom years, will be held Saturday when Lesley Hyde Ripley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry B. H. Ripley, makes her bow at a cost of approximately $30,000.

A $15,000 ballroom is being built especially for the party on the Ripley estate and may be torn down afterwards. There will be about 1,000 guests.

The party probably will be the biggest and most expensive of the Newport season, since Mrs. Hamilton Rise's death ended her long series of $50,000 parties.

HOUSE OF 125-CLOCKS RESOUNDS TO DIN ON EVEN HOUR

CLEVELAND, (UP) — "Tick-tock" is multiplied 125 times in the home of Charles S. Mills—the owner of that number of clocks.

His clocks' ages range from 65 to 170 years.

As for types of time pieces, there are:

Swiss music clocks inhabited by wooden cuckoos, a clock balanced on the nose of a statue elephant, a grandfather clock, a timepiece that needs to be wound only once every 400 days, a ponderous, antique alarm clock, and a clock with three figures on its face which become animated at every quarter hour—one man chops wood and another man and a woman saw wood.

Then there is a duplicate of the clock Columbus imported. It is operated with a weight.

Another unusual specimen in Mills' collection is a "locomotive clock"—built around the image of a locomotive emerging from a tunnel. And last year Mills constructed a clock that is operated by water.

It is at the even hour that he is the happiest. At that time the cuckoo-cuckoo, the chiming chime, the grandfather clock booms forth and the Swiss music-box clocks tinkle melodiously.
